

Questions Commonly Asked About PRAMS

What is PRAMS?

PRAMS (Pregnancy Risk Assessment Monitoring System) is a joint research project between the Washington State Department of Health and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Our purpose is to find out why some babies are born healthy and others are not. To do this, our questionnaire asks new mothers questions about their behaviors and experiences around the time of their pregnancy. Each year in Washington there are hundreds of babies born with serious health problems. Many of these babies die. We need your help to find out why. No matter how your pregnancy went, your answers will help us learn more about ways to improve the chances for future mothers and babies in Washington.

Will my answers be kept private?

Yes all answers are kept completely private to the extent permitted by law. All answers given on the questionnaires will be grouped together to give us information on Washington mothers of new babies. Your answers will be used for research purposes only and may be shared with a limited number of researchers who have signed confidentiality agreements with the Department of Health. The number on the survey lets us link your answers to your child's birth record information and to other databases. In reports from this survey, no woman will be identified by name.

Is it really important that I answer these questions?

Yes! Because of the small number of mothers picked, it is important to have everyone's answers. Every pregnancy is different. To get a better overall picture of the health of mothers and babies in Washington, we need each mother selected to answer the questions. From the information you give us, we may be able to improve health care for women and children in Washington. We need to know what went right as well as what went wrong during your pregnancy. Your help is really important to the success of our program.

Some of the questions do not seem related to health care why are they asked?

Many things in a mother's life and pregnancy may affect her pregnancy. These questions try to get the best picture of the new mother's health care and things that happened to her during pregnancy.

How was I chosen to participate in PRAMS?

Your name was picked by chance, like in a lottery, from the state birth certificate registry. You are one of a small number of women who were chosen to help us in this study.
