Hello,

Thank you for inviting public comments on this important issue.

Wi-Fi is banned in schools in France & Israel and several other countries are considering similar measures. US safety standards follow the 1996 telecommunication act which does not consider harmful health effects from wireless radiation. We, as a progressive state, should not put our children's health at risk, esp. in schools where they will be exposed for a continuous duration of more than 6 hours on a daily basis. We should make absolutely sure that we extensively study this subject before we put our children in harm's way. Please refer to the works of Ms. Blake Levitt & Mr. George Carlo as part of your investigation.

With gratitude,
