

Is your child's crib safe?

How about your child's high chair or playpen?

Each year, more than 60,000 children in the U.S. are treated in emergency rooms for injuries caused by recalled products.

Many recalled items are found at thrift stores, garage and yard sales, or are passed on from family members or friends. Before buying or using a second-hand product, check to be sure it is still safe and has not been recalled.

It's easy to check! Contact the CPSC
(Consumer Product Safety Commission):

- Phone: 1-800-638-2772
- TTY: 1-800-638-8270
- Web site: www.cpsc.gov/cpsclist.asp
or www.recalls.gov
- Email: Sign up to receive recall notices
at www.cpsc.gov/about/subscribe.html

Many libraries have free internet access.

Protect your child. Check for recalls first.