ARNP With or Without Prescriptive Authority Renewal

If this is your first renewal since obtaining your ARNP license, you need only pay the fees that are due. The CEs and Practice Attestations are not due until your next renewal in two years. Otherwise the following applies.

According to WAC 246-840-300 through 450 you must provide the following at the renewal of your ARNP license:

- 1) A current/active Washington RN license. (You may renew your RN with your ARNP)
- 2) License Renewal Fee (This fee is non-refundable.): RN $120.00 and ARNP $125.00. If your renewal is postmarked after your license expiration date, the renewal and late fee is RN $170.00 and ARNP $175.00.
- 3) Attestation of Advanced Nursing Practice. You attest to a minimum of 250 hours of specialized and advanced nursing practice providing direct patient care within the past two years.
- 4) Attestation of Continuing Education. You attest to a minimum of 30 CEs in your area of advance practice and 15 CEs minimum in pharmacology if you have prescriptive authority. These CEs must have been taken within the past two years. If you have more than one advance practice credential, you will need to complete attestations, CEs, and practice requirements for each.
- 5) Proof of your current National Certification. Your ARNP license will not be renewed without proof of this certification.

As of April 1, 2009, the Nursing Care Quality Assurance Commission no longer sends paper copies of renewed licenses. To confirm receipt and processing of your renewal, check Provider Credential Search at <https://fortress.wa.gov/doh/providercredentialsearch/>. Allow two weeks for mail and processing after sending your renewal notice and fee.

Our Provider Credential Search is Primary Source Verification for all health care licenses in Washington. Provider Credential Search can be used by you, employers, and surveyors to verify your active license instead of viewing a paper copy. Using Provider Credential Search prevents potential fraud of paper licenses. The system updates as renewals are processed and is available 24/7.

It is a violation of law to practice without a current license and subject to disciplinary action. Avoid a lapse in your license status, please return immediately.
