Purpose of the proposal and its anticipated effects, including any changes in existing rules:
Current fees are generating surplus revenue for the genetic counselor program, largely related to their growing licensee base and minimal disciplinary costs. This program is projected to have a funding balance of $142,000 by June 2019, which is forecasted to grow to approximately $354,000 by June 2025. Professions need to maintain a reserve that is based on level of risk including revenue stability, disciplinary trends, and size of the profession, in order to cover unanticipated costs. The proposed 75 percent fee reduction is anticipated to bring the program's fund balance down to target reserve levels of $57,000 by Fiscal Year (FY) 2029. The Department of Health (department), is also proposing a decrease to the late renewal penalties to $50.00, license duplication fee to $10.00, and license verification fee to $25.00, in order to bring these amounts in line with the department's standard for all health professions.

Reasons supporting proposal: RCW 43.70.250 requires the cost of each licensing program to be fully borne by the profession's members and licensing fees to be based on the licensing program's costs. In response to a petition by the Washington State Genetic Counselors Network, the department is proposing to decrease licensing and active renewal fees for genetic counselors, after determining that current fees are generating a program fund surplus. The goal of the proposed fee decrease is to bring licensing fee revenues into alignment with the actual costs of regulating this program, and avoid the projected growing fund surplus. The department's proposal to decrease the late renewal penalties and adjust the license duplication and verification fees is intended to bring these amounts in line with the department's standard for all health professions.

In addition, the State Auditor's Office (SAO) published their performance audit report, "Aligning Healthcare Professional Fees with Licensing Costs," in November 2018, to examine if the department aligns the fees it charges to healthcare professions with the costs of licensing. In response, the department is developing processes to review fees more consistently and enhance transparency of fund balances and fee setting. Department policy and Office of Financial Management guidelines that require professions to have a sufficient reserve to cover unexpected costs, were also used.
