Welcome to the Chiropractic Quality Assurance Commission Newsletter

This purpose of our newsletter is to help keep the chiropractic community informed of issues related to Washington State laws, as well as the work of the Chiropractic Quality Assurance Commission (commission).

Message from the Chair – Harold Rasmussen, DC

I hope that you had a very fulfilling holiday season. We wish you all a happy and healthy New Year. The commission is looking forward to a very productive and rewarding year.

I would like to bring you up to date with a couple of items that I think are very important to Washington State chiropractors.

The commission is working with the Department of Health (department) to get a licensing fee decrease. RCW 43.70.110 requires fees be set to run the program without creating a deficit or large surplus of money. The department annually analyzes the revenue and expenses for all professions to consider past, current, and future biennia to determine if a profession’s revenue is sufficient to administer the program. It appears that a reduction to the renewal fee is necessary. The department is running projections to determine the proper fee reduction. I know that the increase in our licensing fees over the past three years has been a hardship on many practitioners. Any reduction to the renewal fee is welcomed.

I would also like to address the newsletter publishing dates. The newsletter will be published in January, May, and September. Because the commission meets every two months, we have found a little difficulty to do a quarterly newsletter. As I stated before, I think this newsletter has a tremendous connection with our profession and the public. We will strive to do the best job we can to keep you updated with what we think is important.
Future Care Contracts

In the chiropractic community the use of future care contracts is commonplace and works well for some practitioners. Offering patients chiropractic care for a monthly fee paid in advance is popular within practice management groups. This type of practice is valuable to the community in that those who are uninsured can receive chiropractic care at reasonable monthly rates.

If you are considering implementing some form of future care contract in your practice, it is very important that you review and learn the laws that govern this. The chiropractic administrative code for future care contracts is WAC 246-808-550 titled “Future care contracts prohibited” and states “It shall be considered unprofessional conduct for any chiropractor to enter into a contract which would obligate a patient to pay for care to be rendered in the future, unless the contract provides that the patient is entitled to a complete refund for any care not received.” Although this appears to be very straightforward administrative code, there is more to be considered.

In order to promote access to medical care for all citizens and to encourage innovative arrangements between patients and providers, RCW 48.150 Direct patient-provider primary health care was developed. This code defines in detail the guidelines and procedures to follow for those health care practitioners entering into direct practice contracts with patients.

Direct practice contracts are similar to future care contracts and RCW 48.150 should be reviewed and understood before beginning a direct practice contract (future care contract) with a patient. A direct practice must charge a direct fee on a monthly basis. The fee must represent the total amount due for all the services specified in the direct agreement. A direct practice must maintain appropriate accounts and provide data regarding payments made and services received to the direct patients upon request. The direct practice may bill patients at the end of each monthly period or collect the fee in advance. However, when the fee is collected in advance and the patient terminates care, all unearned direct fees must be promptly refunded to the patient. If the patient pays more than one monthly direct fee in advance, then the funds must be held in a trust account and paid to the direct practice as earned at the end of each month. Any unearned direct fees held in trust at the time of termination must be promptly refunded to the patient. The direct practice may not submit any claim for payment to any insurance carrier for health services provided to direct patients. Direct practices must submit annual statements to the Office of the Insurance Commissioner, specifying the number of providers in each practice, total number of patients being served, the average direct fee being charged, providers’ names, and the business address of each direct practice.

This is a brief synopsis of RCW 48.150. If you are considering a future care contract type of practice, it is recommended that you read this chapter of the Revised Code of Washington.
DISCIPLINARY ACTIONS

The Washington State Department of Health revoked or suspended the licenses, certifications, or registrations of healthcare providers in our state. The department has also immediately suspended the credentials of people prohibited from practicing in other states.

The department’s Health Systems Quality Assurance division works with boards, commissions, and advisory committees to set licensing standards for more than 80 health care professions (e.g., medical doctors, nurses, counselors).

Information about healthcare providers is on the agency’s website. Select Provider Credential Search on the Department of Health home page (www.doh.wa.gov). The site includes information about a healthcare provider’s license status, the expiration and renewal date of his or her credential, disciplinary actions, and copies of legal documents issued after July 1998. You can also get this information by calling 360-236-4700. Consumers who think a healthcare provider acted unprofessionally are also encouraged to call and report their complaint.

The Chiropractic Commission has taken the following disciplinary actions, or withdrawn charges, against Washington State licensed chiropractors.

Rules Information

A rules hearing was held for WAC 246-808-180 – How to reactivate an expired license.

The commission had concerns that there are increased risks of patient harm when a practitioner who has not practiced for more than three years, and who has not maintained clinical competency or continuing education, is able to reactivate an expired license with minimal requirements.

The amended rule describes the requirements to reinstate an expired license based on three time frames:

- One renewal cycle or less,
- One through three years, but the chiropractor had an active license in good standing in another jurisdiction and completed CE, or
- More than three years and the chiropractor did not have an active license in good standing in another jurisdiction and did not complete CE.

The amendments help to ensure that practitioners who have not practiced for a period of time have the skills and knowledge to ensure patient safety.

In addition, the rule also makes some general housekeeping edits to remove statutory citations that do not apply.

The commission adopted the amended rule language. The CR103 will be filed in February with the Code Reviser’s Office. Once the rule is filed, it will be effective 31 days later.

SUICIDE PREVENTION SURVEY AND TRAINING

Suicide is one of the major leading causes of death among our youth, among men in many age groups, as well as among the elderly and military personnel or veterans. Washington State is attempting to find interventions to prevent suicides in our state. A new law, RCW 43.70.422, requires certain healthcare professionals to attend suicide prevention training every six years. Chiropractic is not included in this legislation.

However, the law also requires that the Department of Health conduct a study regarding suicide education and prevention. The University of Washington School of Nursing was awarded the research project through a competitive bid process. As part of the study, an online survey will be conducted in order to gain input from all healthcare providers. The survey will be open during February and March, and should take less than 10 minutes to complete https://catalyst.uw.edu/webq/survey/emwalsh/188377. A notification will be sent out through the listservs and provider associations in February. We encourage you to pass this link onto other providers you may know as input from all healthcare professions is a vital part of this study.

If you are interested in obtaining training on suicide prevention, following is a list of potential trainings:
