A Letter From the Commission

From the members of the Dental Quality Assurance Commission.

Public safety is the Dental Commission’s primary duty. Regulation and rulemaking are critical parts of fulfilling that mission. We appreciate this opportunity to provide insight about our important rule writing efforts and to explain the rationale behind them.

The legislature requires us to protect public health, and to promote the welfare of the state, by acting as the disciplinary and regulatory body for dental professionals licensed in Washington. That means we establish, monitor, and enforce qualifications for licensure, continuing education, consistent standards of practice, continuing competency, and discipline. Rules, policies, and procedures must promote the delivery of high-quality health care to Washington residents.

With many different rule changes being considered, we understand there may be some misunderstanding about the process and about the intent for significant rule changes. Please know that we consider many issues and directives before authorizing rule changes. Such changes are necessary to be current with technology and national issues. Throughout rule writing development we ask questions, research topics, and discuss with stakeholders for many months before enacting a rule change.

New Dentist Continuing Education Requirements

Effective January 1, 2019

The Dental Commission adopted amendments to clarify continuing education (CE) requirements. A major change includes the CE reporting period, 63 hours every three years. Please note, although the CE reporting period is changing from annually to every three years, this does not change the annual renewal of a dentist license. You must still renew your dental license every year on or before your birthdate.

- Sixty-three CE hours every three years; license renewal is still annual on your birthdate.
- Jurisprudence examination required once every three years, counts as one hour of CE (free, online, open book).
In 1994 our state passed Initiative 607 (denturist licensing) by more than 15 percentage points. Since that time denturists have been widely accepted in the dental community as a viable option for removable prosthetics. Washington State is lucky enough to be bordered by and near states, along with a neighboring nation, that also have licensed denturists. Oregon, Idaho, and Montana, as well as all of Canada, recognize denturists as independent practitioners for providing dentures. The United States still has only six states that regulate the practice of denturists. Arizona and Maine also recognize denturists to help people who need dentures.

Denturists have found a comfortable niche within their local communities’ dental needs. Patients who once thought that their dentures were “good forever” or “never need another check-up” have found homes in a denturist’s chair. Also, this has expanded the relationship between the dentist and denturist. Denturists regularly refer patients to their friends in dentistry for services they cannot provide. These relationships have increased the placement of dental implants as well as improved overall oral health care.

More information on the denturist profession in Washington and nationally is at wadenturist.com and nationaldenturist.com. Below is a podcast link that provides some insight to the history of licensed denturists.

Dental Hygiene BLS Requirements

Provided by Bruce Bronoske, Jr., Program Manager

Dental hygienists must maintain a current basic life support for the healthcare provider certification in order to renew their license (WAC 246-815-140(1)(b). This course is specifically designed for healthcare professionals and includes additional information not covered in other classes. This training develops a team-based approach to medical emergencies and covers topics more appropriate to a healthcare setting. No other CPR courses will meet the requirement for renewal.
Updated CE Requirements

- Clinical supervision is acceptable CE.

You begin obtaining your CE for the three-year reporting period beginning on January 1, 2019.
First CE due date will be with your renewal in 2022.

The legislature enacts laws that direct us to write rules to implement those laws. One such law deals with opioid prescribing. We participated on a 10-person cross-profession workgroup to draft opioid prescribing rules over seven months in 2017 and 2018. Additionally, the commission discussed comments and concerns from stakeholders at many business meetings this year, and incorporated significant changes through this process.

National concerns or increased complaints sometimes identify the need to modify a rule, such as infection control. The same is true of incidents in our state of significant patient harm or death, such as a death of a child after receiving anesthesia. These are serious public safety and health concerns that we must address.

For example, on-site inspections for anesthesia providers have been discussed at several commission meetings since 2014. On-site inspections for anesthesia providers were originally authorized in 2009. We are now modifying this rule because we have not been enforcing the inspections. The rules are not final. We continue to seek feedback to ensure the rule is fair and necessary.

We also have been discussing continuing competency. Under RCW 18.32.002, the law states in part the commission’s purpose is “… to regulate the competency and quality of professional health care providers under its jurisdiction by establishing, monitoring, and enforcing qualifications for licensure, continuing education, consistent standards of practice, continuing competency mechanisms, and discipline.” Although we are carefully reviewing this topic, we are only in the discussion phase.

Everything we do has some type of oversight: a state law, a governor directive, or your input and review. Your comments help us make decisions. We read and value all comments, even when we might not agree. We consider public safety and health with every decision we make.

We, the members of the Dental Commission, ask you to engage in our rule making process to ensure your voice is heard. Cooperation and communication are crucial in carrying out the public safety responsibility we share.

Meeting notices and requests for comments are made through our interested parties list. It’s easy to sign up to receive these emails at www.doh.wa.gov. Rules in progress are published on our website. Comments can be provided to Jennifer Santiago at Jennifer.santiago@doh.wa.gov.

New CE Rule Frequently Asked Questions

Effective January 1, 2019

How many hours of continuing education do I need to renew my dental license?
Sixty-three hours every three years. State law details continuing education requirements for dentists (WAC 246-817-440).

May I count continuing education hours from one reporting period to the next reporting period?
No. You may not carry over continuing education in excess of the required hours earned in a reporting period to the next reporting period (WAC 246-12-230).

May I complete all 63 hours of continuing education in the first or last year of my reporting period?
Yes. You may obtain the 63 hours of continuing education any time during the required three-year reporting period.

When does my three-year reporting period start?
The three-year continuing education reporting period for a dentist licensed in Washington before 2019 begins January 1, 2019. Verification of completion of continuing education hours will be due on the dentist’s annual license renewal date in 2022, and every three years thereafter.

The three-year continuing education reporting period for a dentist initially licensed in Washington in 2019 or later begins upon date of licensure and every three years thereafter.

Why was the continuing education reporting period changed to three years?
The commission determined a three-year reporting period provides more flexibility for dentists to complete continuing education. Some dentists earn more than 21 hours in one year and will now be able to claim all hours within their specific three-year reporting period. Better quality continuing education can be sought, rather than dentists taking any course to meet the one-year deadline. Additionally, many other states have two- or three-year reporting periods. This change creates consistency with other states.

Infamous or Famous

Thomas Welch: While it may seem ironic that the creator of a company specializing in sugar-laden fruit juices was also a dentist, that’s exactly what happened with Thomas Welch. He was a British-American minister and dentist.

The founder of Welch’s was a dentist before he retired and gained some notoriety for inventing a pasteurization process for grape juice that kept it from fermenting. Welch’s intention was to create a non-alcoholic wine that could be used at the sacrament in churches, calling it “Dr. Welch’s Unfermented Wine.”

Thomas Welch’s son, Charles E. Welch, was also a dentist. Father and son actually established a Welch’s Dental Supply Company and even a dentistry journal.
Meet the Educational Outreach Committee

The Educational Outreach Committee is a subcommittee of the Dental Quality Assurance Commission. The committee is made up of members from the Dental Quality Assurance Commission, Board of Denturists, and Dental Hygiene Examining Committee. The committee works to educate dental professionals and the public about what’s happening in the dental arena. Below are a couple of the members of this committee.

Vallan (Val) Charron, Denturist

My name is Vallan “Val” Charron. I have been a licensed denturist for nearly 25 years. I own Northwest Dental and Denture in Tacoma. We have two dentists and two denturists on staff. Last fall I was appointed to the Denturist Board for the second time in my career. I volunteered immediately when the opportunity came about to serve on this committee of all our dental peers.

In my spare time I coach club fastpitch softball and recently was hired as a coach for the Pierce College fastpitch softball team in Tacoma-Puyallup. Golf and travel are also passions, as well as hanging out with my three adult daughters.

Aaron Stevens, DMD

The power to license the dental profession is derived from the public. Its interests need to be represented by people with dental knowledge and a public priority mindset. I believe I meet that well in my service on the commission. Outside of dentistry and service here, I love time with family canyoneering, hiking, mountain biking, and playing tennis.

Answers From July Newsletter Quiz

How many hours of continuing education may I do online?
There is no limit, but only 30 minutes for every one hour completed counts toward continuing education. Example: You complete 30 hours of continuing education online; you may use 15 hours toward your required 63 hours of continuing education.

What is education in evidence-based dentistry or medicine that includes journal article evaluation?
It is education that practices critical thinking and builds a knowledge base of logical fallacies and biases to filter out literature that is poorly done or misleading. It will also teach the learner how to measure the level of reliability of the conclusions of any particular paper even if it is well done. Readers will be more effective if they are familiar with that literature. The learners will develop a series of questions that will lead them to methodically dissect the information in a verifiable and reproducible way.

Where do I obtain a critical evaluation of journal article education?
Courses are available by multiple organizations in person or online; i.e. universities, Johns Hopkins, and Cochrane courses. Education should contain literature analysis. Verification of any Commission on Dental Accreditation residency meets the critical evaluation of a journal article education.

Are live webinars considered self-study or online education?
No. Live interactive webinars are specifically indicated as allowable in WAC 246-817-440 (4)(a) of the rule.

If I take the jurisprudence examination in December of 2018, may I count that as part of the required 63 hours?
No. Changes to WAC 246-817-440 become effective January 1, 2019. Hours used to meet the 63-hour requirement must be taken on or after January 1, 2019.

When may I begin taking CE to meet the new 63 hour CE requirement?
On or after January 1, 2019.

May I count a course taken in year one of the CE reporting period and count the same course again in year three of the CE reporting period?
No. You may not count the same course twice in one CE reporting period (WAC 246-12-230), except for basic life support which may be taken once each year. You may count three hours every three years (WAC 246-817-440).

Where do I obtain the critical evaluation of a journal article questionnaire?
On our webpage. WAC 246-817-440 (4)(f)(ii).
